

MERCY

“The Mercy Vineyards wines reflect what might be called the “new school” of California wines, and they stand out in two respects. First, they are characterized by elegance and restraint together with very judicious use of oak. Second, they speak of a specific origin; hence they are as well part of a growing niche of terroir-driven wines...

I find their style particularly appealing, but of course my palate was shaped by years of working with (and drinking!) white and red Burgundy.”

Roger C. Bohmrich, MW
Vintrinsic, March 2013

Artisan Wines from the Arroyo Seco
Mercy Vineyards | www.mercywines.com

MERCY

“The Mercy Vineyards wines reflect what might be called the “new school” of California wines, and they stand out in two respects. First, they are characterized by elegance and restraint together with very judicious use of oak. Second, they speak of a specific origin; hence they are as well part of a growing niche of terroir-driven wines...

I find their style particularly appealing, but of course my palate was shaped by years of working with (and drinking!) white and red Burgundy.”

Roger C. Bohmrich, MW
Vintrinsic, March 2013

Artisan Wines from the Arroyo Seco
Mercy Vineyards | www.mercywines.com

MERCY

“The Mercy Vineyards wines reflect what might be called the “new school” of California wines, and they stand out in two respects. First, they are characterized by elegance and restraint together with very judicious use of oak. Second, they speak of a specific origin; hence they are as well part of a growing niche of terroir-driven wines...

I find their style particularly appealing, but of course my palate was shaped by years of working with (and drinking!) white and red Burgundy.”

Roger C. Bohmrich, MW
Vintrinsic, March 2013

Artisan Wines from the Arroyo Seco
Mercy Vineyards | www.mercywines.com

MERCY

“The Mercy Vineyards wines reflect what might be called the “new school” of California wines, and they stand out in two respects. First, they are characterized by elegance and restraint together with very judicious use of oak. Second, they speak of a specific origin; hence they are as well part of a growing niche of terroir-driven wines...

I find their style particularly appealing, but of course my palate was shaped by years of working with (and drinking!) white and red Burgundy.”

Roger C. Bohmrich, MW
Vintrinsic, March 2013

Artisan Wines from the Arroyo Seco
Mercy Vineyards | www.mercywines.com